Apostrophe for possession. We can use an apostrophe to show that something belongs to someone or something.

Example; Miss Fletcher's jumper was blue. The sentence shows that the jumper belongs to Miss Fletcher.

Can you write the sentences below and put an apostrophe to show that something belongs to someone or something? You will need to be really good at spotting the nouns. (There is a clue in one of the sentences where a word is underlined.)

The cats basket was in the corner.

I went to Lolas house yesterday.

My mums car is bright red.
